Because not all of our customers have HTML5 capable email clients, we will make an exception and send an html version of. Page.. Page.. The. Page.. What happens now? Everything you see here is your maximum capacity for what it can give you now. It's not perfect, but it's what you have to work with, and you have a little bit more at your disposal than you did a year ago. In the past, this page used to provide a real-time snapshot. That's a cool idea, but apparently it doesn't work. It's important to remember that when we write about capacity, we mean the resources you have available to use, not the resources the site has available to host or generate. If a week becomes too big for the hosted version of a site, a mirror is uploaded. This has been done with nearly 100,000 pages, and no one has ever noticed. This isn't a static page. It will change when you send your email. Professional Escrow Services Get Domain Name:. at Hostinger.com & Hostgator.net. Learn about how credit cards work. Live
